Abstract

This study is conducted to examine the impact of independency variable dimensions toward audit quality. The variable dimensions are Integrity, Objectivity, Audit Fee, and Audit Tenure. The method of this study is survey which by distributing questionnaires, either online or directly. The respondents are individuals who actively worked as auditors in 2016 at the big four accounting firms in Jakarta with the total number of 90 individuals. The data are processed with the help of smartPLS 2.0. The result empirically shows that integrity, objectivity, and audit fee positively affect audit quality. Although, the result also shows that audit tenure does not affect audit quality. The implication of this study is that the big four accounting firms should consider auditors' integrity, objectivity, and also the competitive audit fee so they could improve their audit quality.
